Heath Expands To Better Serve Our Customers

Due to the unprecedented continued global acceptance of our products Heath Consultants Incorporated has expanded our manufacturing and corporate office space by adding an additional 22,000 square foot building to our Houston, Texas campus. Without the loyalty and trust of our valued customers this growth would not have been possible. The new facility will enable Heath to streamline the engineering and development processes of new products and field services.

Additional emphasis will be on lean manufacturing, reducing waste, vertical integration, on-time delivery and a safe workplace for our employees.

Are you aware of all the products and services that Heath offers? We partner with well recognized research and development organizations as well as industry trade associations to provide state-of-the-art products and services to various utility markets. Let our experts find the best solution for your next project visit www.heathus.com for more information on Heath's products and services.

Follow Heath on Facebook and LinkedIn. You will find company updates, Human Resources notifications, employee kudos, industry related news and more.
